“OVR 101”

What is the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation?
How can they help my child transition from high school to their ultimate employment goal?
What services can OVR provide that supplements my child’s learning?
Will my child qualify for OVR services?

The Office of Vocational Rehabilitation is a state agency that helps individuals with disabilities that present substantial obstacles to successful employment, yet that person with a disability wants to work. Answers to these questions and more will be discussed at the OVR 101 workshop.
